

We need less agglomeration of corporate controls over information. Radio, TV, and hard copy news should be entirely separated in ownership. The use of electromagnetic wave length bands should not be considered a corporate "right", but a privileged use of the "people's airwaves"; so public service should be given prime importance.